

In my project, I have decided to highlight the multiple ways that fast fashion harms our Earth. When researching the topic, I found that fast fashion is harmful to our oceans, landfills, food supply, air and our work force for those companies that choose to use sweatshops to manufacture thousands of items daily. I wanted to portray the images within our globe to show how they happen internationally, not just in one place. I still have to add text to my image. I am going to include facts on both sides of the globe, as well as a tagline at the top and possible resources underneath the globe. Below are some examples of my process trying to figure out how to layer the images within the globe.
